
Study Abroad

Study Abroad and Internships

For some FHS study programs, it is necessary to complete an internship abroad (study stay, study-research stay, practical internship). Firstly, consult your internship selection with your supervisor or the guarantor of the study program. In terms of the recognition or the content of the internship, contact the Department of Doctoral Studies.

Dean's Directive No. 10/2017 obliges the student to register internships in the SIS. After the arrival from the internship, the student has to upload the signed and stamped Confirmation of Study / Research Period form into the SIS. If these rules are not followed, the internship is likely not be recognized not be recognized.

A brief summary of the registration procedure and instructions for setting up an internship in the individual study plan module are available in the Manuals section of this website.

Information about the possibilities for going abroad within the framework of scholarship programs, interuniversity agreements or Erasmus + internships and about the financial support at CU of free-mover stays can be found on the Study Abroad website of the FHS International Office.

If you have any questions regarding foreign internship offers, do not hesitate to contact the International Office.